

Transition of NPG completed

---

Dear colleagues,

We are pleased to inform you about the successful transition of the journal Nonlinear Processes in Geophysics (NPG) from an open access journal with a traditional review process into an interactive open access journal applying the public peer-review and interactive public discussion concept.

Manuscript submission has been reopened and you are cordially invited to try out the new review process. Manuscripts submitted before 18 December 2013 will be finished in the traditional way.

Thank you very much for supporting NPG! We are confident that NPG will benefit from the transition and continue to serve our community as an outlet for quality research. We invite you to join in this endeavour, and the challenges it represents.

Kind regards,

Martin Rasmussen (Copernicus Publications)
Roger Grimshaw (NPG Chief-Executive Editor)
